Undergraduate admission to Texas Woman's University is based on a number of criteria, including academic achievement, academic preparation, and, in some instances, standardized test scores. An offer of admission from TWU is valid for four terms if the applicant has not attended another institution of higher education. If a student does not attend TWU within four terms, a new application must be submitted along with the appropriate credentials. Applicants who would like to make changes to an application should contact Student Records (<https://twu.edu/admissions/application-process/>) or complete the Application Change (<https://apps.twu.edu/admissionsprocessing/appchangeform.aspx>) form.
