

ENGLISH, SPEECH, AND FOREIGN LANGUAGES MINORS

English

The English minor is an excellent addition to any TWU major. It demonstrates to employers that students have developed and can practice high-level critical and analytical thinking skills, as well as excellent written and oral communication skills, all of which are highly sought by employers. For a minor in English, the requirement is 12 semester credit hours in the department beyond first-year composition for a total of 18 credit hours. At least 6 semester credit hours must be advanced and must include one 3000-level writing course. At least 3 semester credit hours of the 6 advanced semester credit hours must be completed at TWU. Hours should be selected in consultation with the English Minor Advisor. No grade below a C may be counted towards the minor.

Spanish

The Spanish minor is an outstanding addition to any major offered at TWU and can substantially increase earning potential, as bilingual employees are highly valued in all fields. The Spanish minor requires at least 18 semester credit hours of Spanish. Six semester credit hours must be at the advanced level. Three of those advanced hours must be taken at TWU. The Spanish minor requires SPAN 1013, SPAN 1023, SPAN 2033, and SPAN 2043. To complete the 18-hours, students must take two 3000-level courses. Those who want to teach Spanish, work with bilingual students, or pursue careers in business should take SPAN 3153 and SPAN 3163. Students in health-related professions should take SPAN 3173 and SPAN 3273 in order to develop the skills necessary to become a bilingual health care provider. Students are strongly encouraged to plan their program of study with the Spanish advisor. No grade below a C may be counted towards the minor.

Journalism

The Journalism minor provides an innovative opportunity for English majors to earn a minor in journalism from the Frank W. and Sue Mayborn School of Journalism (<http://journalism.unt.edu/>) at the University of North Texas, the only accredited school of journalism in the state. Students may focus on broadcast journalism, news writing/editing, photojournalism, advertising, or public relations. The combination of a liberal arts major and a journalism-related minor create the strongest possible foundation for success. Additional information on the program, which requires students to take courses at the University of North Texas, is available from the department.
