The Division of Mathematics offers graduate studies leading to the following degrees: Master of Science in Mathematics and Master of Science in Mathematics Teaching.

The Master of Science prepares the student to enter the workforce or to pursue doctoral degree programs in mathematics, statistics, applied mathematics, or related fields.

The Master of Science in Mathematics also provides the student an opportunity to include computer science and statistics in the plan of study.

The Master of Arts in Teaching (M.A.T.) degree offered through the College of Professional Education prepares graduate students to be future mathematics teachers at the 4-8 or the 7-12 levels in mathematics. Mathematics courses required for the degree are determined in consultation with a departmental advisor.
