

MASTER OF SCIENCE IN ACCOUNTANCY

The M.S. in Accountancy prepares students for positions in financial management and in-demand professional designations leading to excellent positions in public accounting, corporate accounting, financial planning, small business accounting, governmental accounting, charities, colleges and universities, and hospitals and other medical firms. In addition, the degree provides financial management training for students who want to own and manage their own businesses.

New CPA Exam requirements make it necessary for candidates to choose a specific “discipline” between Taxation, Business Analysis and Reporting, and Information Systems and Controls. The MS in Accounting gives students the opportunity to emphasize one of these areas.

Combined with the BBA Accounting degree, the MS in Accountancy provides all required classwork required for the CPA designation, the CMA designation. Students interested in a professional financial designation should consult with a faculty member in accounting.
