

CAMPUS AND CENTERS

The Denton Campus

The main campus of Texas Woman's University is located in Denton, TX, a growing community of more than 113,000 residents and located 38 miles north of Dallas and Fort Worth, the nation's fourth-largest metro center.

The university's high-rise residence, academic, and administrative buildings dominate Denton's skyline. Blended with these structures are historic buildings, including Old Main (<https://myatlascoms.com/map/?id=576&mrklid=175720>) (the university's first building) and the Little Chapel-in-the-Woods (<https://myatlascoms.com/map/?id=576&mrklid=175926>).

Known for its beauty and private college feel, the Denton campus features the Blagg-Huey Library, which is home to the nationally renowned TWU Woman's Collection (<https://twu.edu/library/womans-collection/>) – the best concentration of resources on U.S. women in the Southwest. The university is replete with modern technology and classrooms that offer creative approaches to teaching and learning. For example, the Ann Stuart Science Complex (<https://myatlascoms.com/map/?id=576&mrklid=175721>) includes the latest instructional technology and lab equipment for teaching and research in chemistry and biochemistry while the new 80,000-square foot Scientific Research Commons (<https://map.concept3d.com/?id=576#!m/523324>) includes collaborative labs and a microscopy suite that support biology, physics, and nutrition & food sciences. Woodcock Hall (<https://map.concept3d.com/?id=576#!m/176197>) is home to the Woodcock Institute for the Advancement of Neurocognitive Research and Applied Practice among many diverse programs. The TWU Fitness and Recreation Center (<https://twu.edu/fitandrec/>) features a 30-foot indoor climbing wall with a 22-foot vertical rappelling station. The Redbud Theater (<https://myatlascoms.com/map/?id=576&mrklid=176191>) is a 120-seat proscenium venue that showcases a variety of drama performances each year. The Student Union (<https://map.concept3d.com/?id=576#!m/175744>) opened in spring 2020 in the renovated historic Hubbard Hall and offers the campus community opportunities for meetings, dining, and events beyond the classroom.

The Dallas Center

The TWU T. Boone Pickens Institute of Health Sciences (<http://www.twu.edu/dallas/>) – Dallas Center opened in February 2011, combining the university's Parkland and Presbyterian sites in an eight-story 190,000-square-foot building in the heart of the Southwestern Medical District.

The Dallas Center, established in 1966, now bears the name of Texas oilman and entrepreneur T. Boone Pickens, who donated $5 million to the new building's fundraising campaign. The center houses the Houston J. and Florence A. Doswell College of Nursing, the TWU Stroke Center-Dallas and the university's physical therapy, occupational therapy, and health systems management programs. Facilities include a new Houston J. and Florence A. Doswell Nursing Center for Scientific Research and Discovery, simulation and research laboratories, computer labs and classrooms, and one-stop student services.

The Houston Center

TWU's Institute of Health Sciences – Houston Center (<http://www.twu.edu/houston/>), established in 1960, is located at the southern gateway of the Texas Medical Center, a world-renowned 675-acre complex of hospitals, health-related schools, and research institutions. The Nelda C. Stark College of Nursing (<https://twu.edu/nursing/>) offers clinical and educational opportunities for students in nursing, including a Center for Global Nursing (<https://twu.edu/center-for-global-nursing/>). Other programs offered at the Institute of Health Sciences–Houston Center include occupational therapy, physical therapy, health care administration, and nutrition and food sciences. Facilities at the center include research laboratories, anatomy and nursing laboratories, a counseling center, a learning resource center, and computer services.
