The Bachelor of General Studies (BGS) degree, offered through the College of Arts and Sciences (<http://catalog.twu.edu/undergraduate/arts-sciences/>), is an interdisciplinary program that provides versatility for adult learners and part-time students who need a flexible curriculum designed to balance work and life responsibilities with educational goals. The BGS degree may be completed 100% online, or on the Denton campus in a face-to-face format.

Concentration areas may be selected from the following disciplines:

- Business*
- Computer Science*
- Criminal Justice*
- English*
- Health Studies*
- History
- Mathematics
- Multicultural Women's and Gender Studies*
- Political Science*
- Psychology*
- Sociology*
- Visual Arts

* Indicates concentration area may be completed 100% online. More detailed information about the BGS program is available on the General Studies Program website (<https://twu.edu/genstudies/>).

Concentration areas may be selected from the following disciplines with approval from the BGS program:

- Dance
- Family Studies
- Human Services
- Kinesiology
- Music
- Natural Sciences
- Professional Education

In order for these concentration areas to be considered for General Studies, students must have already successfully completed at least 12 semester credit hours of 3000- or 4000-level courses in the discipline.

The General Studies Program may allow additional concentration areas on a case-by-case basis and with departmental approval; students must have successfully completed at least 12 semester credit hours of 3000- or 4000-level courses in the discipline in order for any additional concentration areas to be considered for General Studies.
